In-person programming in January 2022

We piloted a selection of in-person programs, including Minds in Motion®, education workshops and support groups, in each region of the province in the fall. These sessions were well attended and participants expressed how wonderful it was to come together to share their experiences and support again! While we continue to provide a host of virtual program options, beginning in January 2022, we will be offering more in-person programs.

With our safety protocols in place, we will be increasing the number and kinds of programs based on the registrations. Visit alzbc.org/COVID-safety to find out more.

We look forward to this new hybrid model of programming, and to welcoming you back to our programs once again.

Stay connected this Alzheimer's Awareness Month

This January, the Alzheimer Society of B.C. is recognizing Alzheimer's Awareness Month by highlighting the experiences of people affected by dementia to say: "Don't change. Even if they do." The aim of the awareness campaign is to inspire people to reflect on the ways they will continue to show up for the people affected by dementia in their lives.

The best thing we can do to support people affected by the disease is not change, even if they do. Throughout January, learn how you can continue to show up while adapting to the changing realities of the disease. Keep visiting. Keep calling and FaceTiming. Find new ways to stay meaningfully connected. No one should have to face the journey alone.

We encourage you to stay connected with people in your lives who are affected by dementia. On Wednesday, January 12, join us for the dementia webinar on "We all have a part to play! Becoming a dementia friend." Learn how taking small everyday actions can build a dementia-friendly community that is inclusive, supportive of and safe for people living with dementia. Learn more: alzbc.org/webinars

In-person and virtual programs available

While we continue to offer our programs virtually, we are also continuing to expand our in-person sessions.
