“The people in cancer clinics all over the world need people who believe in miracles.”

~ Terry Fox

Happy Birthday!

Terry Fox (1958–1981) was a young Canadian athlete who changed the world with his determined spirit in the face of adversity. Diagnosed with osteosarcoma at age 18, he faced the amputation of his right leg above the knee. Refusing to let this define him, Fox conceived a bold and selfless mission: to run across Canada to raise money and awareness for cancer research. He named it the “Marathon of Hope.” He began in April 1980 and ran an average of 42 kilometers each day for 143 days, inspiring Canadians from coast to coast. Sadly, Fox was forced to stop when cancer spread to his lungs. He died on June 28, but his remarkable legacy endures. To date, the annual Terry Fox Run has raised more than $900 million for cancer research.
