Directions:

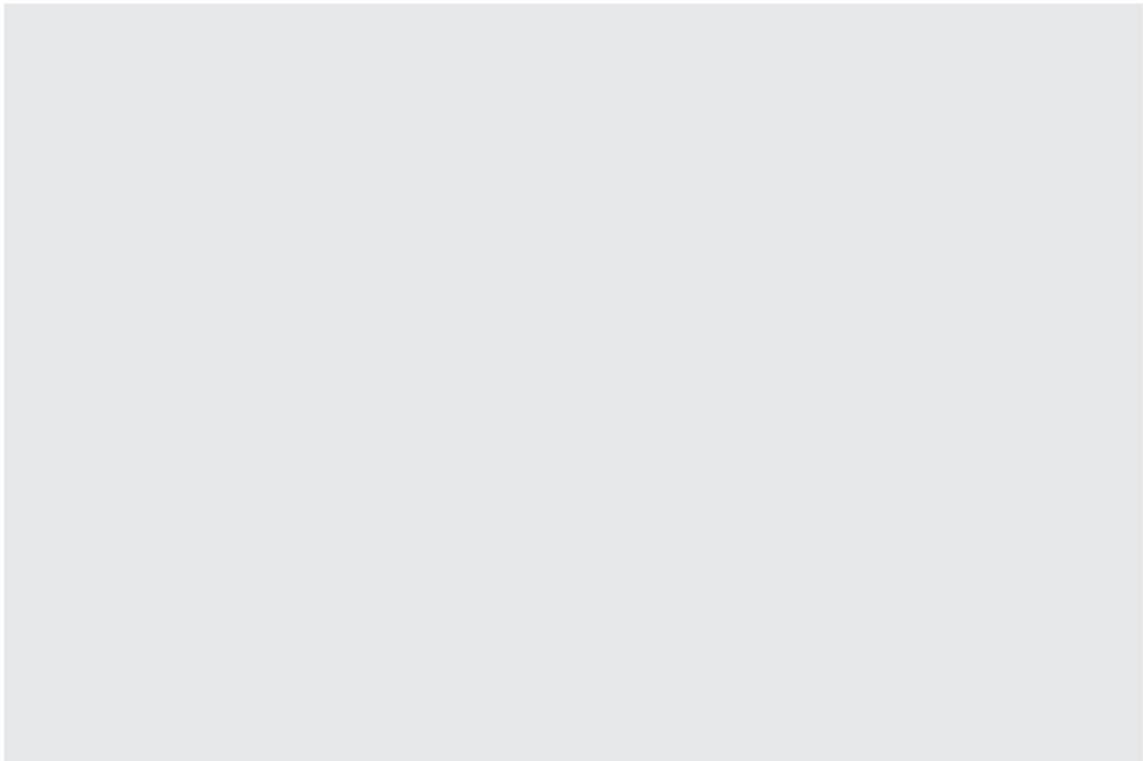

1. Before starting this project, examine the gravel. If it is sandy or dusty, rinse it and allow it to dry overnight.
2. Remove the backing and glass from the frame. Set it aside.
3. Using hot glue, attach the stones to the frame, one at a time. Remove any strands of glue.

4. Paint the rocks using a light shade of color at the top and a darker shade of the same color at the bottom. Blend the two tones in the center of the frame for an ombre affect. Allow the paint to dry for 45 minutes.
 5. Dab a generous amount of Mod Podge over all the stones and let it dry for several hours. The Mod Podge will add extra adhesion and protect the surface. It also makes the frame easier to clean.
 6. Cut out a frame insert and attach a photo to the gray area using Glue Dots or double-sided tape. Reassemble the frame with the photo and insert. Display your photo and frame or give it as a gift to a special guy on Father's Day.
