is seeking a

Saskatoon First Link[®] Coordinator

The Alzheimer Society of Saskatchewan (ASOS) is a volunteer-based, non-profit organization committed to improving the lives of people affected by Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. ASOS is currently recruiting an ambitious and result-oriented individual to work as a full-time First Link[®] Coordinator based in Saskatoon, serving the former Saskatoon Regional Health Authority

In this exciting role, you will primarily support people living with dementia and their family caregivers. You will help build awareness with physicians, specialists and other health care providers about the First Link[®] direct referral program and how they can connect people with dementia and their families to the programs and services of the Alzheimer Society. You will also provide information, support and referral to Society programs and services and connection to community programs and services throughout the progression of the disease. A full job description is available upon request.

Ideally, you will have the following key attributes and qualifications:

- Bachelor of Social Work, Kinesiology, Nursing or equivalent degree
- Three to five years of experience with Alzheimer's disease and other dementias or a related area
- Comprehensive knowledge of Alzheimer's disease and related dementias, the disease's impact on the person, the family and others. You will also have knowledge about available community resources.
- Well developed public speaking and communication skills
- Strong organizational and relationship-building skills
- Demonstrated ability to work cooperatively with volunteers and staff
- Professional and organized work ethic
- Self-starter with the ability to work independently
- Outgoing personality
- Creative problem solver
- Ability to travel with valid driver's license and clean driver's abstract. Vehicle is required.
- Subject to vulnerable sector criminal record check

Salary Range: $47,300 - $57,900

The Alzheimer Society of Saskatchewan provides extended health benefits through 3SHealth and participates in SHEPP (Saskatchewan HealthCare Employees' Pension Plan).
